

Gender Responsive and Trauma Informed

Instructor:
Gabriella Grant, MA

Instructors Information:

Ms. Grant obtained her Masters in Policy Studies with an emphasis in Criminal Justice Policy from The Johns Hopkins University. She is the director of the California Center of Excellence for Trauma Informed Care in Santa Cruz, California, overseeing the Center's research and policy analysis activities. In addition, she convenes the Santa Cruz Trauma Consortium and the Annual Fall Trauma Conference. Through Gabriella Grant Consulting, Inc.,

Course Description:

This training explores two frameworks for service providers when working with incarcerated or released women. In Part 1, trends of incarceration by gender and race provide a historical birds-eye view to then focus on gendered differences among incarcerated people in more recent times. Evidence of unique patterns within female populations is explored. Gender-responsive standards, as delineated by Covington and Owens, are reviewed to allow attendees to assess their services—both areas of strengths and weaknesses. In Part 2, trauma exposure specific to having an incarcerated family member is explored, uncovering a unique trauma-related factor that can be addressed within programming. The standards of trauma-informed care, according to SAMHSA, are reviewed as well as several specific curricula, Beyond Trauma, Helping Women Recover, Seeking Safety, etc., for incarcerated women.

Instructor Information: Ms. Grant obtained her Masters in Policy Studies with an emphasis in Criminal Justice Policy from The Johns Hopkins University. She is the director of the California Center of Excellence for Trauma Informed Care in Santa Cruz, California, overseeing the Center's research and policy analysis activities. In addition, she convenes the Santa Cruz Trauma Consortium and the Annual Fall Trauma Conference. Through Gabriella Grant Consulting, Inc., Ms. Grant consults with publicly funded agencies and trains professionals in the social services topics that cover trauma, substance abuse, PTSD, eating disorders, domestic violence, sexual assault and child abuse. As a trained policy analyst, Ms. Grant applies the public health model to understanding the neurobiological effects of trauma, safety and coping. She helps agencies use trauma-informed practices to create a therapeutically beneficial milieu for a variety of treatment modalities and outcomes. Her focus on effective programming and enhancing safe policies and procedures for staff has provided a strong public health foundation to agencies in healthcare, criminal and juvenile justice, housing and mental health treatment. She has a bachelors' degree from Amherst College, a Latin teaching certificate from the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome, Italy, and a Masters of Arts in Public Policy from the Johns Hopkins University. She has taught at the primary, secondary and university levels and has trained professionals, advocates and consumers in a wide variety of settings.
