Course Description:

Homelessness is both caused by trauma and is a symptom of trauma. By focusing shelter or program rules on safety, empowerment, and addressing unsafe behavior in a compassionate manner, agencies working on addressing homelessness in their communities can improve client outcomes, create safer shelters, and reduce staff burnout.

Instructor Information: Ms. Grant obtained her Masters in Policy Studies with an emphasis in Criminal Justice Policy from The Johns Hopkins University. She is the director of the California Center of Excellence for Trauma Informed Care in Santa Cruz, California, overseeing the Center's research and policy analysis activities. In addition, she convenes the Santa Cruz Trauma Consortium and the Annual Fall Trauma Conference. Through Gabriella Grant Consulting, Inc., Ms. Grant consults with publicly funded agencies and trains professionals in the social services topics that cover trauma, substance abuse, PTSD, eating disorders, domestic violence, sexual assault and child abuse. As a trained policy analyst, Ms. Grant applies the public health model to understanding the neurobiological effects of trauma, safety and coping. She helps agencies use trauma-informed practices to create a therapeutically beneficial milieu for a variety of treatment modalities and outcomes. Her focus on effective programming and enhancing safe policies and procedures for staff has provided a strong public health foundation to agencies in healthcare, criminal and juvenile justice, housing and mental health treatment. She has a bachelors' degree from Amherst College, a Latin teaching certificate from the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome, Italy, and a Masters of Arts in Public Policy from the Johns Hopkins University. She has taught at the primary, secondary and university levels and has trained professionals, advocates and consumers in a wide variety of settings.
